

Arbuckle Costic Architects, Inc. of Salem celebrated their 50th Anniversary in August. The firm was started by J. Warren Carkin in 1958, and has evolved over the years into the firm's current ownership by Kim Arbuckle and Alan Costic. The firm's office is in the Historic Farrar Building on State Street, located in downtown Salem. Warren Carkin graduated from the University of Oregon, first working for several Portland area firms to get a broad base of experience, before opening his own firm in Salem in 1958. The firm began as a one-man operation before partner Bob Sherman and future owner Kim Arbuckle were brought on board.

Chemeketa Community College held a ground-breaking ceremony for its new Center for Business & Industry (CCBI). The four-story, 50,000 square foot structure will be located at 626 High Street NE. SEDCOR, will also be relocating to the new facility.

"The new facility will help us expand our services to the business communities of Marion, Polk and Yamhill counties," said Diane McLaran, CCBI director. "Our services are designed to help businesses meet the needs of the 21st Century workforce through state-of-the-art training and technology and business-related programs."

The new space will include video conferencing areas, an executive briefing room, computer labs, interactive "smart" rooms, and it will conform to some of the highest environmental standards of Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design (LEED). Space is available for lease within the building for organizations that are focused on strengthening business and industry.

CCBI, serves Marion, Polk and Yamhill counties with small business development programs and services, computer workshops, and customized trainings.
